WeatherCall[®]

America's premier severe weather notification service

FOR YOUR HOME

Site specific, rapid notifications for all storm-based NWS severe weather warnings to any type of phone, SMS text, or email address, 24/7/365.

In 2007, the National Weather Service (NWS) began issuing address-specific warnings for individual storms, making county-wide warnings obsolete. Traditional warning methods such as most outdoor sirens, NOAA weather radios, and even the new Wireless Emergency Alerts for smart phones are county-based, delivering false alarms to unaffected areas. These “bell-ringer” methods are meant for you to seek additional information to know if this warning affects YOU, which require TIME when seconds can mean the difference between staying safe or a catastrophe.

WeatherCall only notifies you of OFFICIAL NWS-issued warnings which are going to impact your SPECIFIC location. The NWS system is the fastest, most reliable, and accurate in the world. Simply put, when a warning “box” is issued by NWS, you’re either IN or OUT of the warning. There is no gray area, nor false alarms.

WeatherCall subscribers know to trust storm-specific NWS warnings. Families know when they get a WeatherCall, the weather WILL get bad.
